

Ardoq End-User Training

Ardoq Services Offering

Develop and deliver optimized learning paths for end-users who will contribute to the Ardoq data completeness and accuracy or consume data insights from Ardoq to inform their decisions.

What it is

A series of five, two-hour workshops designed to identify the wider audience of end-users that will interact with the Ardoq platform as contributor or consumer users performing data maintenance or decision-making activities. An Ardoq Professional Services consultant will help you to identify your target user groups and their training needs before defining optimized learning paths for each group. The consultant will then provide guidance as you build training content and support the delivery of a pilot group dry-run of the content before the final rollout. An exemplar training video will be created and provided for you to base your specific content on.

Ardoq End-User Training consists of the following:

What you'll accomplish

- Wider stakeholder engagement via optimized learning materials

What you'll get

- Five, two-hour workshops guiding you through the above process
- An exemplar training video
- A copy of slide deck materials from the workshops
